

PUFFINS

A large group of puffins is gathered on a grassy cliffside overlooking the ocean. The puffins are black on top and white on the bottom, with distinctive red beaks. They are scattered across the grass, some standing and some sitting. In the background, the ocean is visible with white-capped waves crashing against the shore. The sky is overcast and grey.

By Chris

Description

- Their bodies are 30 feet long.
- They puff their cheeks and bodies to look bigger.
- They have orange feet that are webbed.

Habitat

-
- A large group of puffins is gathered on a dark, mossy rocky cliffside. The birds have white bodies, black wings and backs, and distinctive black and white faces with large, colorful bills. They are standing on the uneven, textured rocks, some looking towards the camera and others looking away. The background is a blurred, natural outdoor setting with more rocks and some greenery.
- They live in cold northern areas.
 - They spend most of their lives alone in the ocean.
 - In the summer they nest in long colonies in sea cliffs.

Food

- They drink salt water
- They can carry many fish.
- They eat small fish like sandeels and herring.

Life Cycle

- One chick is born every year.
- The mom and dad takes turns bringing it fish to eat.
- They live 20 years.

